

Dear FCC Commissioners & Staff:

Dear FCC,
Once again you are in the position of really messing things up...dont do it...independant ISP's are an important part of the internet. Taking away their access to being able to provide high speed connections is not a good idea. The 'bells' already have entirely too much control over how things are done, and it is important to keep access available through other means than the 'bells'.

Sincerely,

Phil Dean
